Daystar's New Upper Dash Panel for 1997-2006 Jeep Wrangler TJs Creates Useable Storage for Small Items

Phoenix, AZ – The Jeep Wrangler TJ enjoys a huge following among off-road enthusiasts, but convenient storage for small items is a challenge. Daystar Products has met this challenge with the release of a dash panel that converts the all-but-useless coin tray (just above the radio on the factory dash) into useable space.

Daystar's new dash panel was designed using the latest computer-modeling software, so it matches the contours of the factory dash for a precise fit. Its texture also matches that of the factory center bezel, so it blends in with the rest of the dash and looks just like a factory piece. It features a main tray that is suitable for mounting a GPS unit, or it can be used as convenient storage for cell phones, sunglasses, MP3 players, and other small items. There are also two smaller coin trays. The sides and back of the dash panel have been raised to maximize holding power for stored items while having virtually no effect on visibility through the windshield for the driver or passengers.

The panel installs in minutes using two small screws inconspicuously positioned over the bottom of the factory tray; detailed instructions and the necessary installation hardware are included. No disassembly of the factory dash is needed, and if necessary, the panel can be easily removed.

In addition to the new upper dash panel, Daystar also offers a unique replacement air vent that can serve as the mounting point for up to two rocker switches. Daystar also has a complete line of suspension components for the TJ, including lift kits, polyurethane bushings, and Poly Flex control arms. Daystar also offers suspension components, motor and transmission mounts, and replacement body mount kits for many Jeep vehicles as well as unique off-road accessories for most popular applications.

All of Daystar's products have been proudly manufactured in the USA since 1977. For more information on this or the rest of Daystar's extensive product line, log on to www.daystarweb.com or call 800-595-7659.
